Caroline Midgley
Director Of Biofuels
LMC International

Caroline Midgley, PhD, is head of Biofuels Research at LMC International, a firm providing economic, marketing, and consulting services for a broad range of industries related to agricultural commodities and their downstream derivatives. Based in Oxford and supported by LMC's grains, oilseeds, sugar and starch teams, Dr. Midgley is responsible for LMC's biofuels and bio-chemicals work. This work includes investment appraisal projects for new plants, assessing the impact of changes in domestic biofuel policies, analysis of agricultural raw material, biomass and by-product markets and an analysis of the impact of technological developments.
